Born in 1985 and graduated in Violin with full marks at the Conservatory of Music of Castelfranco Veneto with Michele Lot, she continued her studies at the University of Music of Lugano with Valeri Gradow, graduating brilliantly in Music Pedagogy – Violin. She has specialized particularly with Yulia Berinskaya and Renato Zanettovich.

Regarding chamber music she graduated with Honor at the International Chamber Music School of Trio di Trieste in duo with the pianist Beatrice Orlandi, under the guidance of Renato Zanettovich, Dario De Rosa, Maureen Jones and Trio di Parma.

She has played as soloist with I Solisti Veneti, conducted by Claudio Scimone, Nuova Orchestra da Camera Busoni di Trieste, Naonis Symphonic Orchestra and others.

She has won several prizes, such as the first prize in XVIII Rospigliosi International Chamber Music Competition, XXVI Carajan Chamber Music Award and XI Canetti International Music Festival (France), in addition to other awards and scholarships.

She has performed as chamber musician in many festivals and she has given concerts in Europe, Russia, the United States, South America, China and Japan.

Concerning contemporary music she has collaborated with Sentieri Selvaggi, Ensemble '900 and FuturQuartetto, performing also for Radio Svizzera Italiana and for Radio3.

As a result of auditions, she started collaborating with renowned orchestras including Gran Teatro La Fenice (Venice), Italian National Symphonic Orchestra RAI, I Solisti Veneti, and others, collaborating with conductors such as Chung, Gardiner, Temirkanov, Valčuha.

Since 2020 she shares with Stefan Milenkovich the artistic direction of International Music Festival Nei suoni dei luoghi and she is the artistic director of Orchestra Sinfonica della Versilia.

Since particularly fond of chamber music, she is currently participating in several ensemble projects, with harpist Nicoletta Sanzin, with violinist Yulia Berinskaya and violist Anna Serova, and with pianist Cristina Santin.
